Logistics Investor of the Year: Global

Blackstone

In addition to landing the biggest logistics transaction on record, Blackstone also scooped up another 60 million square feet of warehouse property in a $5.9 billion deal with Colony Capital. The New York manager also bundled together 1,000 industrial assets that it had amassed since 2017 and launched an €8 billion last-mile logistics company called Mileway. To cap things off, the firm began monetizing some of its new warehouse property, selling 29 million square feet to Nuveen Real Estate for $3 billion.
